It's not just the Chrysler Building that's going to start shuddering, should all the geologists' predictions come true. Bridges, buildings, highways, and landmarks may all get a case of the shakes. Below, a map of the critical (read: escape) routes and emergency headquarters, plus some indications of where you won't want to be when the big one hits. A hint: in the post-quake classifieds, Lexington Avenue will have plenty of 2 BRs w/ or w/o.
